A

It started in the USA in 1891 and was the idea of a Canadian teacher. He wanted to create a game that his students could play indoors during the winter. The basic rules haven't changed much since then. It's been an Olympic sport since 1936. The characteristic orange ball has been part of the game since the 1950s.

B

People have played a form of this game for about five hundred years. The modern game developed on grass courts in England. However, it evolved from an indoor game from France. The name of the sport comes from the French word tenez, meaning 'take it'. Players said this when they served the ball.

C

There are pictures in Ancient Egypt of people hitting an object with a curved stick. They show that a form of this sport has existed for thousands of years. In Europe, people have played a similar game on ice since the 16th century. The first modern game took place in Montreal, Canada, in 1875.

D

This sport hasn't existed for very long. It started in the USA in the 1950s. Surfers there invented a way to surf on the pavement when they finished surfing on the sea. Its popularity has gone up and down since then. However, it's been back in fashion for the last few years. It's been present at The Extreme Games since they started in 1995.
